Judge Hunter's Decision-Consternation and Wrath Among the People. Salt Lake, November 1st.—The Tribune, in commenting on Judge Hunter's decision, which gives so much aid and comfort to the Mormons, and which nullifies the laws of the United States in Utah, says:

esterday, as it was announced it would be, we should ing worth while on the main is hear something worth while on the main issue; but when the Judgegot through a blank expression spread over every face. "Is that all?" was the query on every man's lips, and in his eyes. That was all. The mountain had labored three weeks, and brought forth a mouse instead of anything to the point. Instead of the judicial thunder expected, which should settle something, there was a pitiful squeak, as if the matter could not be settled at all, because there could, in the opinion of the Judge, be a little quibble raised on the sufficiency of a part of the pleadings—a small technicality, which it either took three weeks to find, or else ought to have been instantly settled on the spot. The circumstances of the case, and the manner of the Court, plainly convinced all who heard the ruling that the Judge had determined that he would give no relief in the premises; that in whatever form the action might be brought.

the Court would be liable to find some way to beat the applicants by switching them off on a quibble from the main question. That he would dare openly to nullify the act of Congress nobody believed. The to nullify the act of Congress nobody believed. The mutterings and dissatisfaction among the law-abiding people was universal, and that the Judge had gone clear over to the enemy was openly charged. It was remembered that he has made no decision here in favor of the Americans, and that he has always been open to suspicion in the nacives which govera him. Old charges, never explained, were revived, and men held up a coin between their fingers and sild, "That did it." Exasperation prevailed to a lisides, as the intention of the Judge to practically nullify the law by refusing to grant relief in the premises became more plain. On reflection and comparison, there was loud talk of calling an indignation meeting, which may yet be done. The question whether American citizens should submit quietly to such a judicial outrage is well worth considering, and whether there is not some way to secure a man, who is at once a good patriot and a good lawyer, to adorn the Bench, instead of one who fails in both points, night well be taken in hand instantly and vigorously.

Killed while Drunk.

The Dalles, November 1st.—A man named Wilson was run over by a train and killed about four miles above this city last night. He is supposed to have been drank, and asleep on the track. He was about 35 years of age, a native of Norway, and a section hand in the employ of the company. The mutilated remains were brought to this city this morning, and an inquest held over city this morning, and an inquest held over them. Nothing further was learned regard-ing his identity than as given above.

CAMPAIGN FIGURES.

We have been pleased to note that in this compaign the usually inevitable "arithmetic man" has been conspicuous by his absence. The reasons for this will of course occur to everybody. One of them is that the "arithmetic man" is more commonly a Republican than a Democrat, and that the Republicans this year have somehow not been greatly tempted to go into figures. In ordinary campaigns both sides would, long ere this, have compiled and published the most conclusive statistics.

This year, however, figures are at a disexperience which is worth a great deal to ously as to "the silent vote," and shaking their heads solemply, as if they could not make it out at all. And yet there never was a campuign the true inwardness of which was plainer than the present one. It is a campaign of false issues, of bad candidates, of political impostors and adventurers. Therefore the majority of the pecple do not take an interest in it, do not "enthuse," do not appear to care how it results, and, having made up their minds long ago how they will vote, calmly await the day of election, and say nothing about the most shameless of the demagogues, the Union Pacific Railway near the city. The it. Figures in such a case are not needed, and they realize this. It is to be regretted miners at the Erie banks, who have been get-

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

LOWLAND IMPROVEMENTS. -C. W. Clarke, of this city, returned yesterday from the lower about a quarter of a mile of the embank-ment is in a dilapidated condition. The levees of the district will all be put in first-class condition at once, and the district made as secure as it is possible to have them with levee defenses. This will make the entire line of levees from above Courtland to Wal-nut Grove complete, and give a perfect line of defense along the Sacramento river-assuming the levees above Courtland and up to the Riverside road terminus to be safe. It only remains for residents along that line e certain as to the latter matter to insure the whole line from Sacramento to Grand island against floods. The meeting of the land owners was harmonious, and the repairs and improvements are to be made without appeal to the law for assessments, the money being raised on the basis of fifty cents per acre, and being paid by voluntary contribution. The works will thoroughly protect the heretofore troublesome Pearson District. The old cross levee, better known as Anderson's or Clarke's levee. and which served the purpose last year of preventing back-water from troubling the residents of this city, will soon be overhauled and made in every way secure. At least that is the present intention; and when this is lone the possibility of back-water from the lower streams will be removed. The con-tractor for the work on the drainage canal came to the city yesterday for additional relays of workmen in order to push the work on that line with vigor and secure its completion, if possible, before the heavy winter rains set in. With a month of fairly favorable weather the canal will be completed to tide water, and all the lower lakes well drained and drainege for this city secured according to the plans originally decided upon. The completion of the work will prove as great a benefit to the residents along the river below this city as to Sacramento, and vill much enhance the value of their lands Surveyor Bassett is at the works superintending the sinking of the canal.

Rev. Mr. Hanson delivered a brief address, street, the crowds of apparently edified celes-tials attracted by the discordant sounds, the brightly lighted temples or headquarters of the gods, the long lines of illuminations and gorgeous display of images and characters in gold and tinsel, and the almost impossible combinations of colors, told plainly enough that the occasion was one of extraordinary import. There seems to be a secrecy enveloping the ceremonies on occasions of this kind, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that information concerning the demonstration or its meaning could be elicited. It is a cardinal principle of Buddhism, of which the religion of the Chinere is but a modification, that the spirits of departed mortals have both the power and the inclination. modification, that the spirits of departed churches would frequently unite their efforts mortals have both the power and the inclinaexerted by one or more of numerous delties, and it is to appease these angry gods that the this city, returned yesterday from the lower river country. He reports a very large and harmonious meeting of swamp land owners as having been held in the Pearson district, near Courtland, on Tuesday. It was resolved to proceed at once to repair the destroyed levee just above Courtland, where disaster or misfortune to the race. So firm is this belief that large amounts of money are annually expended in the ceremonies which are designed to allay the godly wrath. The amount expended in this city will aggregate $2,000, which is some $300 lers than the cost of last year's demonstration. The custom is represented to be as old as the doctrines of Confincins, upon which the popular religious in this onward march.

After receiving an ordinary education, supplemented by a brief period at the High School of his native city, he entered a printing office and learned to set type. At sixteen he became a sailor, but after one voyage resumed the use of the composing-stick. He continued to live quietly in Philadelphia until VOCAL MUSIC wenty, when he left for California. In 1871 he started the Evening Post, of San Francisco, a one-cent paper, which grew into a five-cent journal, of which he was editor and part owner. He removed to New York in the summer of 1881, and is still a resident of that city.

County Clerk David Wilder reports that during the month of October he received $3,411 25 in fees, which he turned over to the County Treasurer, from the following sources: General Departments, $1,722; Department Probate, $955; Department of ecial Proceedings, $290 25; and $444 for marriage licenses.

The Act of Congress, passed August 2d last, regulating the carriage of passengers by sea, went into effect Wednesday. The Act provides that immigrants going by steamship must be allowed, when on the main deck, one hundred cubic feet of space, and when on the deck below, one hundred and twenty cubic feet. Other important changes regarding food, accommodations, etc., are made.

In the case of G. L. Jordan, charged with obtaining money by false pretenses, Judge Waymire has denied the application for a writ of habeas corpus and remanded the accused to custody. The accused essayed to secure his release on the ground that he had already been tried and acquitted on the charge. The prisoner has appealed to the Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus.

POET SAYS:

Long had I looked and searched and sought, Both Stoves and Ranges, too, I bought, And every kind on earth I tried And yet with none felt satisfied. Hope shed at last one dezzling ray-The "GARLAND RANGE" I saw one day, I found at length the thing I sought-I went, examined it, and bought.

CHORUS. The "Garland Range!" The "Garland Range!" For any other who would change?

The "GARLAND RANGE" you'll find the BEST. It is a beauty, bright and fair, And finished far beyond compare, With nickel nobs and nickel pin And nickel name-plate, it is sure to win. It's edges, too, are polished bright, Which makes it levely to the sight;

While every patent known to fame,

The "GARLAND RANGE" has just the same. Another thing, too, we must tell, Enough alone to make it seil: If ever the "GARLAND" wants repair-Any piece-no matter where-Send to LEWIS' California stock, And receive in return at price bedrock, For the amount on hand is just immense, Thus further saving of great expense. Our little home new looks so bright, It fills our heart with pure delight; Our Range we find deserves its name-The "GARLAND!"-'tis well known to fame. It bakes, it roasts, it fries, it broils, And then one's food it never spoils; Our mother says it can't be beat.

And what she cooks is good to eat. Go down to LEWIS', and you'll buy-The price you'll find is not too high; 'Iwould be a labor far too great Half its beauties to relate. Enough we've said, I think, to show, Where, if you want a Range, to go-And when you see it, it will be strange

CHORUS.

The "Garland Range!" The "Garland Range!" For any other who would change? Search through the north, south, east and west, The "GARLAND RANGE" you'll find THE BEST.
